Martin Juste has a special focus on offshore wind, transport and shipping and ports.

Martin advises clients regarding transactions in the offshore wind and renewable industry.

He has been involved in and negotiated a large number of major offshore wind projects around the globe and is one of the most experienced lawyers in respect to both the turbine supply agreement and the service contracts. Martin has been involved in FIDIC's initiative on a contract for the offshore industry.

Martin regularly advises clients on maritime and transport law issues. In particular, he advises in respect of the vessels used for the construction of offshore wind farms but also in regard to traditional transport and shipping matters.

He has extensive experience in charter parties (BIMCO and bespoke) and transport contracts and is involved in the development of charter parties for vessels.

Martin is also advising several Danish ports regarding their regulatory framework, procurement of port equipment and regarding port expansions.
