ABN AMRO has via its Energy Transition Fund agreed to make a strategic investment in Fiberline Composites A/S.

Fiberline Composites A/S is a Danish family-owned company founded in 1979 and is today one of the world's leading manufacturers in the production of pultruded composite components for wind turbine blades.

ABN AMRO Bank N.V. is the third-largest bank in the Netherlands and launched its EUR 200M Energy Transition Fund in 2018.

The investment in Fiberline Composites A/S is the Energy Transition Fund's first strategic investment in Denmark.

The closing of the transaction is pending regulatory approval.

The core M&A team from DLA Piper was led by Karsten Pedersen, John Emil Lyngfeldt Svenson, and Sara Schjørring, who advised ABN AMRO Energy Transition Fund B.V. on all legal aspects of the transaction.
